Haven't we all had that thought, "if only that person weren't in my life"…
 The person in the way of a big promotion at work…
 The best friend who steals your boyfriend…
 or when you learn that a criminal doesn't get pressed charges…
 Most of us stop and hold back, because we know what murder will cost us.

But what if there were a poisonous medicine that could kill anyone without a trace?

Scientist Toichi invents a poison that kills anyone who drinks it, within 24 hours by a heart attack, without leaving a trace in the body.
 What will people do when they get hold of an ultimate poison that will allow for the perfect crime?

Based on the 80's novel by Jiro Akagawa that has become an inspiration for many modern mysteries such as "Death Note" and "Ikigami" follow the destiny of those who dare to make use of this ultimate "poison."
